

Clintonites try to move past RFK remark - Hum!!!

Tuesday, 27 May 2008

Last Updated Saturday, 07 June 2008

“Sen. Hillary Rodham Clinton’s comments evoking the assassination of Robert F. Kennedy in June 1968 continued to reverberate across the political world Sunday, as Clinton campaign surrogates took to the airwaves to explain and apologize for her controversial remarks.

Clinton’s comments came during a discussion about increasing calls for her to drop out of the presidential race. “My husband did not wrap up the nomination in 1992 until he won the California primary somewhere in the middle of June, right?” she said. “We all remember Bobby Kennedy was assassinated in June in California.”

On Sunday, she wrote an editorial in the New York Daily News further explaining her remarks. “I was making the simple point that given our history, the length of this year’s primary contest is nothing unusual,” she wrote.

McAuliffe said the media and the Obama campaign fueled the debate. “A hyped-up press over Memorial Day weekend and the Obama campaign inflamed it,” he said. “It’s nice to get a story going and then let it go for three days over the weekend.”

Clinton backers said there was no need for Clinton to personally apologize to Obama.

“Her remarks were not about Sen. Obama. They had nothing to do with him,” Clinton adviser Howard Wolfson said on CBS’s “Face the Nation.”

During a radio interview with a Puerto Rican radio station Saturday, Obama called the remarks “careless” and said he accepted Clinton’s explanation that she meant no offense. {popin}

So what do you think? It appears that Sen. Hillary Clinton would love to see Obama disappear before June. Is the White House really that important? These types of remarks seem to be an element of politicians in Washington. This isn’t the first time Sen. Clinton discussed these controversial remarks. I guess she’s trying to make him apart of the Clinton Chronicles. This is 2008 and there’s no place for people who can’t control their emotions regarding discussing topics. Sen. Hillary Clinton is tired! Why don’t we just send her home so she can really get some rest!

What do you think she meant??